Using the pattern, cut out 2 pieces for the body, 4 arms, 4 legs, and 4 ears.

SEW THE EXTREMITIES

Starting with an arm, place the right sides together.

Starting on one side, sew all the way down and around the bend and back up the other side, using a 1/4" seam allowance.

Do not sew across the top. Leave that open for turning.

Do the same for the legs and the ears.

Flip each extremity right side out.

ATTACHING EXTREMITIES AND SEWING THE BODY

Now let's create a Rabbit Sandwich!

Place the body, right side up.

Set the ears at the top of the head, right side down, with about a 1/2" space in between them.

Place the arms on the sides, making sure they are the same height from the bottom.

Last, place the legs with a 1/4" space in between.

Place the second body piece right side down and pin all pieces into place.

Starting at about 1/2" from the bottom on one side, sew around the entire edge of the bunny using a 1/4" seam allowance.

Leave a 2" space for turning (I tend to end about 1/4" below the bunny's arm).

Flip the bunny right side out.

FINISHING

Now stuff the bunny nice and full and hand stitch the opening shut. With a Fabric Sharpie draw on eyes, nose, mouth, and whiskers.

That's it! You're all done.
